MR. BELL ELDRIDGE, clerk of the United states circuit court, has returned, and can be found at the courthouse. EDITORS APPEAL.—As the sanitary condition of Memphis, and the proper means of preventing the recurrence of yellow-fever are the subjects which mostly occupy the minds of our people, will you peimit a place in your paper for a few thoughts from one who has been a citizen here for forty years, and consequently yields to he one a deeper devotion to her interests and future prosperity. A meeting of citizens is called this evening "to MISS SUE A. COOPER has returned and will ber instructions in music, vocal and plane, ce, 425 Vance street, DR. R. L. LASKI and family have returned to the city He has been in Louisville several months, and his wife and daughter in Germany. ty. A meeting of citizens is called this evening "to consider matter, appertaining to the sanitary needs of Memphis, and to secure a speedy meeting of the legislature in extra session for the necessary legislation." I think the citizens of Memphis should deliberate some time before calling the I gislature together in extra session for the purpose of imposing upon themselves any such onerous tax for sewerage purposes as was proposed and agreed upon in the St. Louis meeting, that is four per cent. It is tile to talk about such a tax in the face of the present financial condition of the city, and in addition to the present burdens of her people. As Dr. Porter very wisely and properly said at the time, it could not be collected. Besides, these gentlemen who so flercely layor this gigantic sewerage system seem to have y. A meeting of citizens is called this eve sissippi, was in the city resterday. He recently re-turned from Texas, where he had gone with the ex-pectation of making his permanent home. He now says there is no ferming country like the Mississippi MR. ELIAS LOWENSTEIN, of B. Lowenstein & Bros., retunned to Memphis jesterday. His house did an excellent business in St. Louis, but he and his brother are among the merchants who intend to remain in Memphis unless yellow-fever comes too frequently. wisely and properly said at the time, it could not be collected. Besides, these gentlemen who so fiercely layor this gigantic severage system seem to have jumped at the conclusion that they have all at once found ou the heretofore undiscovered cause of ye low-fever, and that this cause is the want of sewerage. I accord to them honesty of purpose and a sincere desire for the public good and future welfare of Memphis. But what is there to establish that there is any local cause for yeilow-fever here or elsewhere, where it has ever been? Upon the other hand, does not all history of this most mysterious malady prove, if it proves anything at all, that there is no local cause? Was it defective sewerings that caused it to devastate Grenada, Holly Springs, Hickman, Chattanooga, Martin, Gallipolis, and the hundreds of other otherwise healthy places that find it? Is it bad sewerage that caused it this year to break out in Forrest City? How is Concordia and other places, passing by through places that were scourged last year, all of them being upon about the same sanitary plan they were itself year. While it is eminently wise and proper, on general principles of hygiene for any city to have good spatitive laws and proper. COLONEL O. P. Lyles has returned from his country home in Arkansas, near this city. He reports the crops in Arkansas as very fine, particularly the potato crop. He says that one of his neighbors—the old pioneer, John Fogleman—a few days 730 cooked one hundred bushels of sweet potatoes at one time, saying that it would be so "convenient" to throw eight or fan bushels of those cooked potatoes into his carriege for a snack when he would be going to Memphis, and that the eight or ten bushels would be sufficient for him to snack on nearly all day. But, for fear some incredulous person inight think this potato story an exaggeration, the colonel gives us the explanation. It seems that this hundred bushels of potatoes had been frost bitten, and the enly way to preserve them was to cook them; and it is said that frosted potatoes cooked by boiling and stacked, or corded up in a room, will keep for a year, and when fried, baked or warmed over, are as good and fresh as though they had never been frosted. This might be valuable information to potato-ratsers. Our informant does not claim that all of his neighbors cook one hundred bushels at each meal, but he says the health of the people is so good and the soil yields so plentifully, that there is a sight of cooking business going on. COLONEL O. P. LYLES has returned from

of them being upon about the same sanitary plan they were last year. While it is eminently wise and proper. on general principles of hygiene for any city to have good sanitary laws and sensible sewerage, yet, in my opinion (and in this matter mine is worth as much as any body's) the sanitary condition of memphis and her sewerage system, had no more to do with yellow-fever here than has the annual overflow of the Mississippi river. Yellow fever is like the wind, "It bloweth where it listeth, you hear the sound thereof, but you cannot tell whence it cometh or whither it goeth," Its history proves that its origin and progress, its career and course of one season swept away the firmest established theories of the most wise and learned. We might act upon the theory of local causes, of want of proper oralizage, and other sanitary measures, and go on and tax the people to death and spend inflicing to remedy these supposed evils, and yet yellow-fever might possibly come again. Upon the other hand, we might not go into this heavy sewerage business, but instead do the best we could with such means as we might command in the way of sanitary measures for the general composition of health, and not have reliow-fever

THE Sisters of St. Mary having discontinued their school in Memphis, I have leased their large ad commodious school-building, and will open L school in Memphis, I have leased their large and commodious school-building, and will open therein my school for girls, D. V. on MONDAY. Nowmber 17.1879. The retired situation and refined surroundings make the location a destrable one for educational purposes, while its accessibility by the street railway and boulevard, overcomes, in a meaning, the obstacles of distance from valued patrons. The rooms are large, light, well ventilated and perfectly appointed—being refurnished throughout with new decks, maps, and school apparatus; and for adaptability to these purposes, are not surpassed in the city. During the fifteen years of my work in Memphis, I have been enabled, by yearly visits to other cities, to keep up with the progress of educational science; and, assisted by trained teachers, I am prepared to offer to the people of Memphis as ilberal a course for their daughters as can be obtained in any high school in the United States. I he course of study will be the same, with some modificance as that devised by me for use in the Presbyterian School.
